FAST, EASY PROTECTION NOW

THERE WHEN YOUR LOVED ONES NEED IT MOST

Unlike an inheritance, final expenses are something none of us want to leave behind for a loved one. The goal is to share a gift – or legacy – rather than costs and expenses.

Understanding how life insurance can help with final expenses is a good place to start. Many Americans believe Social Security will pay for their final expense needs. However, the government only pays a lump sum of $255 for those who qualify.¹

What's more, the Veterans Administration final expense benefit for non-service related death (if you qualify) is only $807 for a plot, plus a $300 burial allowance if not hospitalized by the VA at time of death, or a $807 burial allowance if hospitalized by the VA at time of death.²

The death benefit after the first two years is based on the face amount (minus the loan balance) for the death of insured regardless of cause of death.
